

Squirrel

Got squirrels? Do you love them or love them not? They are one of nature's most visible acrobats, jumping from tree limb to tree limb, and running along utility wires and fences. They defy most every design, device and technology, intended to keep them from eating the sunflower seeds, peanuts, and corn in bird feeders.

In Louisiana, the Gray and the Fox squirrel can be found in most places where there are trees. Gray squirrels have gray backs and sides, white or gray bellies, and a white-fringed tail. Fox squirrels has orange or rust backs and sides, orange bellies and a black-fringed tail.

Learning Links:

10 Nutty Facts About Squirrels

See Inside a Squirrel Hospital

Project Squirrel needs your help!